COUNTY SEAT FIRMS OPTIMISTIC OVER FALL CONDITIONS

Anticipate Increase in Orders
Within the Next Few Weeks

THINGS LOOK BETTER

Clothing Factory Now Has 60
People Working On Full Time

DOYLESTOWN, July 30.—With the exception of one business house in this place, the leading mills, factories and manufacturing concerns all expressed anticipation of an increase in business in the county seat within the next few weeks.

Joseph Ruos, of the Doylestown Agricultural Works, which is now the main distributing and show rooms for the International Harvester Company and farm machinery, declared that things looked better. "Money just now seems a little tight, but I believe that after harvest it will loosen up." Eighteen men are employed full time, it was stated by Mr. Ruos, who said many of the farmers were engaged in harvesting and delayed making visits to town unless absolutely necessary.

The Doylestown Knitting Mills, a hosiery mill which, according to authorities, has never been closed since it began operations here, is running full swing with eighteen employees on its payroll.

The industry, located on Harvey avenue, is at present making silk hosiery and other women's apparel. "We are just approaching our busy season and things look better, if only market prices were not so poor," said the manager.

Less than a block distant, the Derk Manufacturing Company, which recently suffered a serious fire and went into receivership, is operating with reduced forces.

Employing sixty men and women, and all of them working full time, the William F. Fretz clothing factory on East Oakland avenue, is reported to be manufacturing fall clothing for men. For the last few weeks, it was stated, the factory has been doing capacity work.

"In the last two weeks we have noticed a decided pick-up," said one of the managers at the Clear Spring Mill on North Main street. Forty-three employees, who manufacture cloth which is used for men's clothing principally, have been working full time.

"This increase, which is only temporary, is the usual business spurt that our industry experiences in the early summer."

Representatives of the Rubber Products Corporation stated their business conditions were just about the same. This corporation, employing ten men, all working five days a week, makes hard rubber supplies for electrical and other appliances. Since January, it was reported there has been a considerable increase.

As manufacturers of children's and dolls' clothing and dresses, the Doylestown Manufacturing Company, South Main street, reported their business very good.

Thirty-two women are employed by this concern. They have been working five days a week. The summer season is generally regarded as the dull season for this type of business.

"We had an excellent demand in our line all through May, June and July, but within the past few weeks there has been a decided let-up in our business," said a member of the Thrift Feed Company this morning.

H. B. Rosenberg declared that his business showed little improvement, but it was due to weather conditions. As for building materials it has been exceedingly slack. According to Mr. Rosenberg, they have been carrying on with reduced forces.

Another local firm, engaged in the manufacture of building materials, the Nye Planing Mill, is at the present time experiencing a slack season, it was reported.

"Perhaps there has been no real improvement in business conditions, but a little better feeling seems to be indicated," it was stated. Sixteen men are employed at the present time.

One of the best indications of an improvement in business conditions locally is the increase in business being transacted by the Doylestown office of the Bell Telephone Company. There has been a noticeable increase in the toll business during the past thirty days as compared to a marked decrease in all toll business everywhere during the past year.

Short talks were made by a few members and refreshments were enjoyed.

AIMS IN CONSERVATION WORK ARE TO LEAVE WOODS AND PARKS AS BEAUTIFUL AS FOUND, AND TO PRESERVE WILD FLOWERS AND TREES

Garden Section of Travel Club Places Appeal Before Public in Attractive Display of Wild Flower Posters in Mill Street Window

The window display which the garden section of Bristol Travel Club has arranged at the Mill street store, formerly occupied by Montgomery-Ward Company, is attracting attention of many, grown-ups and children stopping to admire the attractive posters done under direction of Miss Ethel Barnhart by pupils of Bristol high school.

The posters show a variety of wild flowers which feature in protection or conservation measures.

The State Federation of Pennsylvania Women, of which the Travel Club is a part, gives as its aims in wild flower conservation work: To leave the woods and parks as beautiful as found, to preserve the wild flowers and trees.

Just at present the public is urged to protect and thus enjoy the following summer blooms: Bluebell, butterfly-weed, birdfoot violet, maiden-hair fern, Indian pipe, Jacob's ladder, wild lilies, meadow-beauty, wild orchids, pitcher plant, pipsissewa, wild pink, butter-and-eggs, black-eyed Susans, wild carrot, day-flower, ferns, milk-weeds.

Besides the above-mentioned, and the many spring-flowers that protection is asked for, there will soon be blooming the following fall flowers which the public is asked to help conserve: cardinal flower, closed gentian, fringed gentian, great blue lobelia, turtle head, asters, bonesets, cone-flowers, cat-tail, pearly everlasting, golden-rods, gerardias, ironweed, Joe-Pye weed, jewel-weeds, mallows, sun-flowers, ticklefoots, yarrow.

The older folks are asked by the women's organizations to "never discourage a child from picking wild flowers. Always find something which may be gathered and explain why the rare flower must be protected."

In arranging the exhibition of flower posters the valued and beauty-giving wild flowers are brought to the minds of the people. The organization of local women ask that residents of Bristol support the measures to conserve the wild flowers which beautify the fields and woods.

Many kinds of wild flowers are disappearing for many reasons, one of them being the result of not leaving enough flowers to seed for the following year, also the uprooting of plants and breaking down of entire branches of shrubs and trees. Those with love of flowers and pride of the country at heart are doing everything possible to preserve these beauties of the fields and woods.

The garden section of the Travel Club advises both young and old that

GIRL WHO FELL ON STREET ESCAPED FROM BYBERRY

Dropped On Sidewalk and Wrote Message On Pad

IN CUSTODY OF POLICE

A young woman dropped on the sidewalk on Mansion street, last night, and was apparently in a faint as residents nearby ran to her assistance. The young woman finally made those endeavoring to assist her understand that she was a mute. A pad and pencil was procured and the girl scribbled "eat—5 days." The sympathies of the women were at once aroused and their heart strings strained to be of assistance. They thought she was hungry.

Bowls of milk were procured and then police were called. Chief Jones took the stranger to the Harriman Hospital, where she again acted the part of a mute, later going into what to all appearances was a faint. Restoratives were applied and she quickly rallied.

At the Municipal Building she gave the name of Dora Zarathy, 2358 Watkins street, Philadelphia. She told Chief Jones she had escaped from a "home for girls" in Trenton, N. J. This information was checked and found to be untrue.

It was 11:30 before the true story was gotten from the girl, who finally stated her name was Dora Oakman, 20 years old. She said her mother resided at the Philadelphia address. Philadelphia police were communicated with and it was established that Dora Oakman was an inmate of Byberry Hospital, Philadelphia, and had escaped from that institution yesterday afternoon. A matron came for the girl early this morning.

HOGS AS AN OMEN

Rising pork and beef prices are good news for the growers without being bad news for the consumer. A 250-pound hog can bring $5 more at the slaughter house without any noticeable effect on retail prices. And the packer can pay $10 more for a 1000-pound steer and affect the consumer even less.

Higher commodity prices at this time work a hardship upon the unemployed and those who have been forced to accept drastic reductions in income, but prices must go up before conditions generally can improve much.

A measure of prosperity can come to the farm from rising meat prices which can help the industrial worker more than the few cents more he may pay for meat can harm him. The depression started on the farm and the next era of prosperity will probably rise there. Once the farmers start buying farm machinery, automobiles and land again the wheels of industry in the cities will move and the jobless will go back to work.

That there is nothing, artificial about this improvement in the hog and cattle markets is apparent from the fact that it has come in the heat of mid-summer when meat consumption is at its ebb. Everything points in the direction of a permanent gain.

ST. LAWRENCE WATERWAY

What would the completion of the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence River deeper waterway project mean to the United States? Cheaper power is its promise for the East. And for the West it offers an alluring vision of an inland seaboard, of Chicago developing into a great port, and of a cheaper outlet for the products of the central states.

The treaty signed and ready for submission to the Senate is the realization of the hopes of all the Great Lakes states. President Hoover endorsed the idea when secretary of commerce and on numerous occasions as a candidate for president and as president has reiterated a pledge made in his acceptance speech at Palo Alto four years ago to strive toward the carrying out of this important transportation and power project.

Another dividend the waterways is certain to pay is the building of a still stronger economic bond between the United States and Canada. It will help defeat the hopes entertained by the United Kingdom (Canada excluded) of breaking the economic union of the United States and Canada, so beneficial to both. The envy of the other dominions is not without cause.

Frequently heard today is the lament that the United States has reached its full stature in population and industrial and agricultural growth. Nothing is farther from the truth, as the opening of the new seaway will prove. There are still a few growing pains in those long legs of Uncle Sam.

"Legal expenses," like charity, cover a multitude of sins.

President Hoover won't attend the Olympic games, having several Herculean tasks to perform himself.

When in need borrow from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and then declare a moratorium.

"MURDER of the NIGHT CLUB LADY"

THE NEW THATCHER COLT DETECTIVE MYSTERY

BY ANTHONY ABBOT

COPYRIGHT 1931, BY COVETI-FRIEDE INC., DISTRIBUTED BY KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.

SYNOPSIS

Despite the police guard placed in her home by Commissioner Thatcher Colt, Lola Carewe, suspected "higher-up" of a jewel theft ring, is mysteriously murdered. Dr. Hugh Baldwin gives heart failure as the cause of death. Those present at the time, besides Colt and his aides, were Lola's mother, Mrs. Carewe; the butler, maid, and Vincent Rowland, an attorney. Colt feels the young man whose photograph adorns Lola's dresser—and whose identity she refused to reveal beyond his first name, "Basil"—is connected with the mystery. At the mention of his name, Mrs. Carewe becomes hysterical, saying Lola was a cruel beast and never loved Basil. Christine Quires, Lola's guest, cannot be located, although the elevator boy claims she returned around midnight with her escort, Guy Everett, and Colt found the bag she carried. Colt phones Everett's apartment after 3 a. m. and learns Everett has not arrived. A clue in the form of a small wooden box is picked up under Lola's window. Chung, the butler, is questioned.

CHAPTER THIRTEEN

THE homely yellow man began by telling nothing. With his pumpkin-like bald head gleaming with moisture, and his gold teeth shining between his parted lips, the ill-favored Chung walked to the drawing-room, hands at his side, and stood deferentially waiting to be questioned. His answers were explicit, if prolix. He had not seen Miss Christine Quires return on this, the three hundred and sixty-fifth night of the latest year of the Christian calendar. He had spent the entire evening in the kitchen, shelling peas and reading a paper-bound life of a cinema actress of great popularity. He was familiar with all of the twelve rooms in the pent-house and knew of no hiding-place that Colt might have overlooked, where Christine might have remained concealed.

But the Commissioner prodded on, hoping still to uncover something behind Chung's Oriental magiloquence.

"What is your full name?"

"Chung Wong Duk."

"And where were you born?"

"Peiping."

"Where educated?"

"Oxford."

"Indeed! Of what class were your people?"

"My father was an exporter of silks."

Colt looked at the butler shrewdly.

"Then what is a man from such a family doing as a butler in the United States?"

THIRD WARD LOSES; TIED FOR 5TH PLACE

BRISTOL TWILIGHT LEAGUE

Result of Last Night
CRESCENTS, 11; THIRD WARD, 2

(By T. M. Juno)

Poor playing by the infield, caused the Third Ward A. C. to drop into a tie for fifth place in the Bristol Twilight League last night on Sullivan's field as the Crescents won their game of the second half, the score being 11-2.

Five errors were made by the Third Ward inner cordon and slow playing allowed several other blows to go for safe hits. The Crescents took advantage of these misplays and scored five times in the fourth, four in the sixth, and finally scored their last two in the seventh.

"Dea" Still twirled for the winners and after being given the large lead in the fourth took things easy. The only runs scored from his delivery came in the lower half of the fifth when "Jimmy" Massilla took a toe hold on one of his slants and drove it into deep right field for a home run, scoring Brescia, who had singled ahead of him.

In all the losers made but five hits, Brescia having two to his credit, while Hibbs and Sagolla had singles mixed in with the four base clout of Massilla. Still fielded his position in wonderful style, handling seven chances without an error.

"Harvey" Cochrane and Joe Britton with two hits each in three times up led the winners' attack on Cummons and Hibbs who were found for ten hits. "Chety" Beaton was the fielding star for the winners.

FIND BOMB IN CLOTHES

VANCOUVER, B. C.—Old clothes collectors for a church rummage sale were startled here when they unrolled a bundle of garments and found a "potato masher" bomb—the kind on a long handle, discarded in the early stages of the world war. It was turned over to police who destroyed the deadly missile.

U. S. Olympic Hope

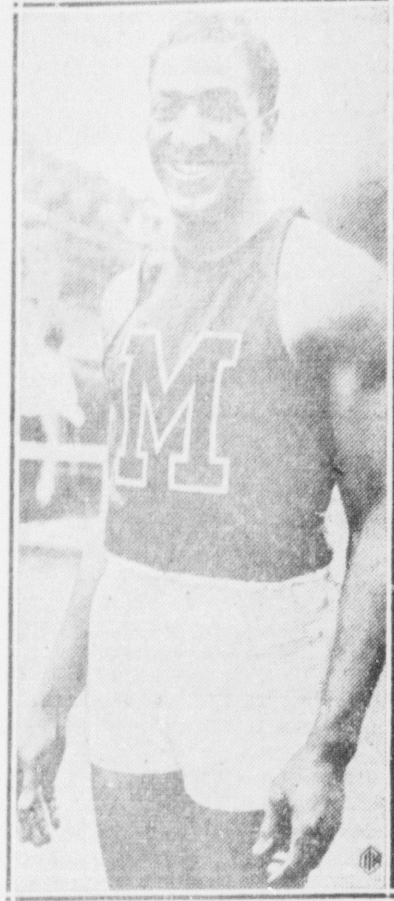

Percy Beard, great New York A. C. hurdler, will be one of Uncle Sam's three timber toppers in the 100 meter hurdles at the Olympics. Beard, national hurdling champion, finished third in the final trials, but is reported in good shape for the big test.

YORK.—Is J. Howard Manifold's face red?

Yours would be, too, if you were sheriff and were caught passing a counterfeit $10 bill.

Howard, sheriff of York county, was making a deposit at the York National Bank and Trust Company when the teller spotted the "tender." An examination showed it to be a bogus note. Howard had received the bad currency in collecting on a $450 execution.

U. S. Olympic Hope

His victories in the final Olympic trials in the 100 and 200 meter dashes place Ralph Metcalfe (above) Marquette University star in the fore as one of the greatest American sprinters of all time. Metcalfe equaled the Olympic record of 10.6 in the hundred and is looked upon as a sure point scorer for Uncle Sam at the Olympic Games.

BUCKS COUNTY'S RURAL HIGHWAYS A HAVEN FOR MOTORISTS

PICTURESQUE scenery abounds in Bucks County, and many motorists say the views are best from roads newly improved through the rural districts. The county has 416 miles of rural highways, of which 244 are reported as improved. This map, prepared by the Keystone Automobile Club, is intended to acquaint motorists with the location of country roads and to contribute to highway safety by decreasing the number of cars on arterial roads Saturdays and Sundays.
